In a balanced river corridor, water, sediment, and large wood interact to support healthy plant and animal ecosystems.

Deforestation, agriculture, urbanization, altered topography, land drainage, and river engineering can cause imbalance in the river network.

This imbalance can led to a decrease in biodiversity.

Understanding past alterations to rivers will improve river management and restoration strategies.